

Video case: Diagnosis of Achalsia by Abdominal Ultrasonography

Mohamed H Emara

Tropical Medicine Department, Faculty of Medicine, Zagazig University, Zagazig, 44519, Egypt

Comment

A-55-year old female presented by progressive dysphagia over a long period, she refused endoscope examination for a long period. On abdominal ultrasonic examination the esophagus appeared dilated and tapers in a funnel shaped manner. Upper endoscopic examination and barium swallow confirmed the diagnosis.